THE AMERICAN JANE EYRE -

PUBLISHED THIS MORNING: M A R Y L Y N D O N;

AN AUTOBIOGRAPHY. In one Duodecimo Volume, neatly bound in cloth. Price $1.

The publication day of this anxiously-expected work was unavoidably delayed in order to prepare a second edition, the first very large issue being angaged in advance.

Much interest is already felt to learn who wrote this extraor-dinary book, and a number of "strong-minded" writers have riginality. The excitement in literary circles is hourly increas-ng. It will make a sensation far and wide on both sides the Atlantic, and will be more read and talked about than any other

Read the following confidential predictions:

"In respect of literary power this novel more than equals the very high expectations which various preliminary notices led to entersine." Many Lyndon' is an American' lane E. re', and her story is told with as much vigor, while it is as original as pretermantal, and as prefoundly interesting so Miss fornote's les remarkable shell'ty, deeply interesting plot, and powerful style are likely to give it a wide sirculation. We feel assured that no one who begins to read it will leave a page uncounsed that no one who begins to read it will leave a page uncounsed that no one who begins to read it will leave a page uncounsed that no one who begins to read it will leave a page uncounsed that no one who begins to read it will leave a page uncounsed that no predict an unusual success. The volume is a powerful production, and will create an excitement in literary incies. Like Jane Eyre, 'this book is not dependent moon a hand-some become for its charm; and it is not improbable that 'Mary Lyndon' may achieve a succe as equal to that."

"Its worth is so large, its original features and individuality of character are so atriking, that we expect to hear it laughed as and loved, admired and abused, more than any work published for many sessions. The book is not one which will be read to-day and forgotten to-morrow. It will do somewhat to-ward modding the career of thinking men and women in the next generation. This is not slight, as it is not undeserved, praise."

"The aim of this book is a noble one, namely, to inspire children with high thoughts, to urge them on in the p-th of virtue, peace, kindness, humanity, religion. " It is such a book as children can understand. Read in every family circle, it must do much good. We advise its use in this manner. Let children learn how much better and happier they will be if good. Let it find its way to every fireside." [Booten Daily Bee.
